

Developmental Writing and Reading Program Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the Developmental Writing and Reading Program, students will...

- Use writing process (conceiving, drafting, revising) to effectively write a college composition for a specific audience and purpose, applying appropriate writing conventions.
- Access, analyze and use credible sources as necessary.
- Exhibit understanding of effective sentence and paragraph structure.
- Use reading process to obtain critical and personal meaning and insight from college-level reading materials.
- Purposely apply strategies to gain meaning from unknown vocabulary and class terminology.
- Intentionally select learning strategies appropriate to context.