

PERSONAL CARE AID

Delta College is not required to furnish assistance, equipment or aids of a personal care nature. Health and safety issues associated with personal care go beyond the scope of the College's legal obligation to level the academic field for a student with disabilities.

If this type and level of assistance is required for participation in a college environment, students must coordinate such support through family, friends, or, quite often through a community-based service agency already involved in the student's situation. In these instances communication by family members or a supporting case manager should be directed to the Director of Disability Services to determine the extent of need, and for collaboration on special arrangements.
