Crime Prevention on Patrol

This one-day class is designed for patrol officers, deputies, and investigators to learn more about preventing crime within their respective communities. Attendees will be able to offer residents and businesses preventive recommendations to reduce the likelihood of being victimized. Participants will learn about target hardening, proven community prevention initiatives, and how to conduct brief, yet effective security surveys.

In today's economic environment, law enforcement agencies are being asked to do more than just respond to calls for service. Preventing crime should always be the primary role of the police, but rarely do patrol officers ever receive training in crime prevention. This course will provide the first responders with the knowledge necessary to assist citizens with crime prevention advice and techniques that may prevent them from being victimized.
