Ineligible for that application:

An individual will be found ineligible for that application if he/she:

1. Refuses to submit to the comprehensive background check.
2. Falsifies information in connection to the comprehensive background check.

What else may affect an individual’s eligibility to receive or be connected with a child care license?

One of the databases checked by the department is a database to determine if the individual ever had a previous license denied, revoked, or a refusal to renew. If the individual falls under this category, the department will assess the individual to determine if they are eligible to be connected with a child care facility.

In addition, sometimes an individual may not have a conviction for an exclusionary crime, appear on a sex offender, child abuse/neglect registry, or had a previous license revoked/denied, however the licensing division determines that they do not meet the definition of “Conducive to the Welfare of Children”. Conducive to the Welfare of Children means the disposition, temperament, condition, and action of the individual promotes the safety and well-being of children served.

Definition of a Conviction under 1973 PA 116 as Revised:

“Conviction means a final conviction, the payment of a fine, a plea of guilty or nolo contendere if accepted by the court, a finding of guilt for a criminal law violation or a juvenile adjudication or disposition by the juvenile division of probate court or family division of circuit court for a violation that if committed by an adult would be a crime, or a conviction in a tribal court or a military court”.

This reference guide may assist in facilitating a discussion with an applicant regarding any disqualifying information they may have in their history. Only an actual submission into the Child Care Background Check Program will lead to a formal finding of eligibility.
